apr 27-Jlt BUSSEY & CARB,
241 and 245 East William street.

WEDNESDAY EVE., JUNE 20, 1898. Mrs. EMERY A. STORRS, the widow of the great lawyer, died yesterday at Chicago, from the effects of a paralytic stroke.

In the award of medals and honorable mentions at the Paris salon this year the Americans have been more than usually fortunate, having been voted six out of the thirty-three third-class medals awarded, and two honorable mentions.

The other day the New York Press made the suggestion that Republicans use a handkerchief of the national colors, red, white and blue, and we noticed that the suggestion has been adopted in some places in the East. That is the kind of a handkerchief that no one need be ashamed to be seen with. The handkerchief craze is a piece of silliness, however, taken at its best.

It is said that the Democratic candidate for Congress in Oregon who was snubbed under 7,000 majority, is willing to admit that the voters of his state believe in protection to American industry, and that the high-tariff-South and free-trade-North style of a tariff revision there.

It was something like cutting a chunk out of the distant past when the Chicago convention intimated yesterday to a brief address from Hon. John C. Fremont, the first Presidential standard-bearer of the Republican party. Still a hearty, well-preserved man, it must have been a suggestive sight when he rose up to address a body largely composed of men who attained their majority since the war, while he still remained to give encouragement and advice to those whose fathers rallied to his standard in the stirring days of that distant period.

The Beguile of Big Profits. In their efforts to array other against class, the union to carry their point, trade advocates are unceasing in the assertions that manufacturers in the United States are realizing immense profits and that this is made possible by the policy of protection. The fact, as so many other directions, the facts are overwhelmingly against them. One of their own number, Mr. Edward Atkinson, an eminent, a statistician, recently stated that during the past fifteen years the average dividends paid by seventy New England manufacturing firms had not exceeded six per cent, for instance.

As regards manufacturers this side the Alleghenies, Mr. Andrew Carnegie is quoted as saying that during the time he has been interested in iron and steel manufacturing there have been occasional failures in that industry in the City of Pittsburgh alone, and no further "there are only sixteen manufacturing firms in the City of Pittsburgh to-day which were failed or suspended."

Of course some manufacturers succeed and become rich, just as some men engaged in merchandising and other lines of business are successful; but the proportion is no larger in the former than in the others. There is too much capital and energy in this country to permit business of any kind to pay uncommensurate profits in the absence of competition.

There is ground for the charge of great profits from men who seek the reward of our tariff, why is it that so many of our shrewdest business men have their capital invested in other enterprises than manufacturing, and are daily adding to such investments?

In connection it is worth remembering that the real backbone of the free trade conspiracy, the men who, to quote the London Times "cannot rest while the United States are unimpaired," are the manufacturers of England, who seek to divide, where they cannot monopolize, the trade of every country whose people are able to purchase their wares.

THE DEMOCRATS OF THE FIFTEENTH DISTRICT held their convention at Milton yesterday, and put up Robert McKinlay, of Paris, for Congress. Mr. McKinlay is a good man, an Democracy man, and possesses considerable popularity, but his camp will ornament Joe Cannon's belt after November along with those of (Gen. Black, Menden Jones, Andy Hunter, and other ambitious Democratic statesmen of the Fifteenth, who have tried the same hopeless task before.

Dr. JONES' RHEUMATISM is not a complaint, but a nerve force, a forcing nerve force by which the system is made to work of the use of Hygie, opium, morphine or tobacco. It supplies a food for nerve tissue and by the gentle operation of being able to buy Hygie, opium, morphine or tobacco, curing all diseases of the stomach and liver. Dr. A. J. Storer will supply the genuine Red Clover Tonic at 50 cents a bottle. 1-2

The I. D. & W. Ry. Will run an excursion train on Sunday, June 24th, leaving Home at 7:20 a. m., arriving at Decatur at 10 a. m., for the purpose of attending the grand concert at the base ball park. Special low excursion rates will be made.

FRANKS & LATHAM have leased the new 127 S. State St. building, and are now ready to accommodate their increasing wholesale trade. Office at their retail store, 148 E. Main St. Dealers in town and adjacent to Decatur are showing their appreciation of being able to buy goods and the opportunity if you need or want a Parasol.

The members of the U. B. church will give an Ice Cream and Strawberry Festival in the Eppler store room on E. Eldorado street, first door out of the church, on the evening of June 1, for the benefit of the church. They kindly solicit the patronage of the public.

A Wild Man.

This morning a wild and woolly man, who has been making the woods of this country his habitable for some time past, called at a farm house beyond the fair grounds and demanded something to eat.

Last evening the fire department was called out to extinguish a blaze in a dwelling house, belonging to Thos. Hays, on the corner of East North street and Broadway. THE $75,000 UNION DEPOT.

What Will They Do? is the Question—Wait and See.

The Illinois Central Railroad officials arrived in Decatur yesterday afternoon in a special train and took in the town in regal style, Superintendent Beck having engaged a number of the open carriages to meet the party at the depot to give all a good look at our bustling city and beautiful avenues. Hon. Jason Rogers, of the state board of Railroad and Warehouse Commissioners, Mayor Kanan and the representatives of the daily papers were at the train to welcome the distinguished visitors, do them honor, and with a liberal and princely air throw open the gates of the city to them. All but President Fish, General Manager Jeffery, Mr. Rogers and Mayor Kanan got into the waiting carriages and drove off. The quartet named lingered in the vicinity of the alleged depot, Mr. Rogers leading in the conversation as to the just claims of Decatur. It appears that Mr. Jeffery has done all within his power to get the depot built. In his numerous letters to Mr. Rogers he has virtually admitted that Decatur should have the building. These letters and Mr. Rogers' frequent visits to the general office of the company in Chicago have convinced the commissioner that Mr. Jeffery has done his part by Decatur in the depot agitation. It now rests with the course President Fish will pursue. He is a reasonable man, but he lives in New York, and until yesterday did not know that Decatur had grown far beyond the passenger house of the Central company. He didn't know that we had a population of nearly 18,000 people; that our postoffice business for a year nearly equalled that of Springfield; that we do more business here in four days than Bloomington or Springfield does in a week; and the present building used for a depot is at least 30 years out of date. He realized on personal inspection that the waiting room accommodations on cold and rainy days are inadequate to the demands of the public, and through Mr. Rogers he was given to understand that Decatur must have a decent depot, and that, too, at no distant date. If built, the structure will go up on the west side of the Central track, and the Wabash and other roads will join in helping pay the bill. Of course no one can positively state at this time what the company will do in the matter, but from what was said it is understood that the company will do the square thing by Decatur. The party will not return to Chicago for a week or ten days, as they are to visit the Iowa lines, going from here to Clinton, thence to Springfield and Dubuque.

THE PARTY.
Below is a complete list of the distinguished visitors:
Bryant, ex-president, New York City.
Edward C. Jeffery, general manager, Chicago.
B. F. Ayer, general solicitor northern lines, Chicago.
Jas. Fontaine, general solicitor southern lines, Baltimore, Tenn.
J. C. Welling, general auditor, Chicago.
Chas. A. Beck, general superintendent, Chicago.
T. J. Henson, traffic manager, Chicago.
R. S. Chas. local treasurer, New Orleans.
A. H. Hanson, general passenger agent, Chicago.
J. W. Coleman, assistant general passenger agent, New Orleans.
A. J. Knapp, assistant general freight and passenger agent, Memphis.
Horace Tucker, general freight agent Illinois and Iowa lines, Chicago.
D. B. Moray, general freight agent southern lines, New Orleans.
M. Burke, superintendent Memphis Division, Memphis.
J. C. Mann, superintendent southern lines, New Orleans.
Henry Seibels, superintendent of machinery, Chicago.
H. W. Clarke, division superintendent, Jackson, Tenn.
A. W. Sullivan, superintendent Illinois lines, Chicago.
J. B. Kemp, division superintendent, Aberdeen, Miss.
G. H. Stearns, general coal traffic agent, Chicago.
C. J. Dawley, chief clerk for Manager Jeffery, Chicago.
While the party was taking an airing the REPUBLICAN reporter had a chat with Mr. Dawley, chief clerk for Mr. Jeffery, who said he knew Mr. Rogers quite well and pronounced him a hustler—a man who wasn't a bit afraid to ask for what he wanted. He said Mr. Rogers had talked and written enough about the new depot Decatur ought to have, to have stormed the fort, and certainly no small thing had been accomplished in getting the company to come here to meet him and to inspect the situation.
